Somewhere in U. S. A
November 9, 1944

Dear Cal:

Upon a good streak of luck a few days ago I had the pleasure and surprise of meeting a friend of mine, Neal Snyder, from Arboreale. After a few "sizing up" looks we finally recognized each other. We as usual had one of our friendly chats of things back home and of our adventures. Neal, at the time was preparing for a leave home.

Well, Cal, I wish I could tell you where I am at the present, but you know the censorship, so I must be careful of things such as that. But at the present I am located on the "Battle-Torn" Levi Woodbury.

Sincerely yours,

June H. Cassell,

^{2/1989} Nichols makes final round in state Junior Miss show

For Sullivan High School senior Rachael Nichols, representing Sullivan County as 1988-89 Junior Miss, last week's Indiana State Junior Miss Pagaent in Frankfort was truly a once in a lifetime experience.

"I've never had a feeling like that in my life," she exclaimed today, talking about her selection as one of the 12 finalists in the week-long competition. "I was very honored just to be there, and then to make the finals — it was so exciting!"

Rachael made the Saturday finals on the basis of her performances on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. "Each day we competed in three categories — physical fitness, poise and appearance, and talent.

"In the physical fitness category, all 40 of us did an aerobics exercise routine to two different songs," she explained, adding that the poise competition was conducted in formals and tested how well the girls carried themselves and their self-assurance.

Rachael, the daughter of Rick and Pat Nichols, R2 Sullivan, in Turman Township, had a talent presentation that was somewhat out of the ordinary.

"I sang 'Love in Any Language' and 'signed' the song with sign language," Rachael said. She accompanied herself on the piano using a tape recorder. "The audience really seemed to like it," she said of her performance.

Rachael became interested in sign language due to her part-time work at Miller's Merry Manor nursing home in Sullivan. "Some of the residents are hearing-impaired, and I got interested in working with them," she explained. She plans to continue her education this fall at Ball State University by majoring in special education, and hopes to have a career working with people with hearing handicaps.

The week's highlight for Rachael was when the contestants got to meet Gov. Evan Bayh.

Rachael Nichols

"He was great. He had been here for the Corn Festival and talked about it for a while. We also went to the House of Representatives, and I got to meet with John Gregg."

Sullivan Jaycee Tim Robbins was her representative from the local Jaycee chapter that sponsors the Sullivan County Junior Miss pagaent. "They have all been great all the way through it," she said.

A bonus of the week in Frankfort was finding a college roommate. "My roommate was a winner from a first-time contest at Rensselaer, and we got along great. The girls were all wonderful."

"I just had so much fun!"

Dear Sir:

I am a steady reader of your paper. It comes to me every week and it is like receiving a letter from home. I am sending you a poem which I think is very good and I wish you would put it in your paper.

To a Wash-Out Pilot

When the cards seem all stacked against you and you can't even get an ace high.
When you are washed out and grounded and finished and there's nobody wants you to fly,
Take a brace, can the chatter and figure
There's a place in the Navy for you.
For if flying is not a part of your program
There are still lots of things left to do.
If you must be a Radio Gunner
Learn your dit-dats and stay on the beam;
Be a son-of-a-gun or a gunner,
Learn your woes are not as bad as they seem.
You know some one must handle the wireless
Coming in on a wing and a prayer
So if nine men are saved by your knowledge
You can be mighty glad you were there.
Then, if messer one o nine are peeling
or a Zero comes down on the run,
If your gun knocks them out of skyways

you can call it a job that's well done.
Because every man jack in a bomber
Is an integral part of the team
If you can't be a pilot and fly her
You can fight her and keep on the beam.

For the benefit of my friends who wish to write to me my address is:

Thanksgiving Day

1. Over the river and through the wood,
To Grandfather's house we go;
The horse knows the way to carry the sleigh
Through the white and drifted snow
2. Over the river and through the wood,
Oh, how the wind does blow!
It stings the toes and bites the nose
as over the ground we go.
3. Over the river and through the wood,
To have a first-rate play,
Hear the bells ring "Sing-a-ling-ding," Hurrah for Thanksgiving Day!
4. Over the river and through the wood,
Trot fast, my dapple gray
Spring over the ground like a hunting-hound
For this is Thanksgiving Day.
5. Over the river and through the wood and straight through the barnyard gate
we seem to go extremely slow
It is so hard to wait.
6. Over the river and through the wood
Now grandmother's cap I spy.
Hurrah for fun, is the pudding done?
Hurrah for the pumpkin pie!

The Dollar and the Cent

a big silver dollar and a little red cent

Rolling along together they went,

Rolling along the smooth side walk,

When the dollar remarked for
the dollar can talk,

You poor little cent, you cheap
little mite,

I'm bigger than you and twice
as bright;

I'm worth more than you a
hundred fold,

And written on me in letters
bold

Is the motto drawn from the pious Creed,

"In God We Trust," which all
can read,

"I know," said the cent, "I'm a
cheap little mite,

and I know I'm not, big nor
good, nor bright,

And yet," said the cent, with a
meek little sigh,

"You don't go to Church as often as I."

The Epic of the Bed Pan

When I had my operation
I displayed a lot of guts;
I could take it, smile and like it,
but the bed pan drove me nuts.

When nature called, I'd call the nurse;
and when I called she ran and soon I'd have my carcass parked upon that god-darned pan.

I'd slide back on my shoulders
but the leverage wasn't there,
and instead of something doing,
I'd shoot a flock of air.

and when at last I'd get results,
I'd feel around my seat,
to see if I had missed the pan
and piled it on the sheet.

There was cold sweat on my forehead,
when I'd feel with cautious care,
and with sighs of satisfaction
find not a thing was there.

But now a new contortion
would leave me weak and pale;
I'd have to work and twist and squirm
to wipe my poor sore Tail.

I'd raise my sitter, high mid-air
this closed the gapping span;
my shaking hand would slip, and then
I'd grab that gosh-darn pan.

The muscles of my neck would bulge
as I stood upon my head.

I'd make a few wild passes and fall weakly back in bed.

And when I'd ring the nurse come in and carried off the pan;
I'd wonder why, on such a job
they didn't send a man.

Then finally, I'd settle down,
that movement was a treat;
but wait a minute! What's so warm,
and wet upon the sheet.

With a gasp of apprehension,
I'd slowly raise my gown,
and there beneath my sitter
would be a blotch of brown.

and so as operations go
I'm a burly, big he-man;
but gosh! it simply burns me up
when I miss that gosh-darned pan.

His Last Trip
The fate of Lieutenant E. H. Bobitt, Jr
of Hot Springs, Virginia

O'er the West Virginia mountains
On the bleak December day,
Sped a fast and stately airdrop
For a port not far away.

Many eyes were cast upon it,
On that sad, sad Christmas day
When the young and handsome pilot
Bravely sped upon his way.

Going home to spend his Christmas
In that old Virginia State,
Little dreaming on that morning
What would be his sad, sad fate.

But the winter twilight deepened,
And the Christmas day wore on,
Yet to this old Virginia home
Came no tidings of their son.

Soon to ~~be~~ there came a message,
"Missing plane cannot be found."
There was formed a searching party
To search the hills for miles around.

(over)

For weary days the search continued
Thru' the mountains, cold and gray,
Still there came no cheerful tidings
at the close of each hard day.

But at last one fateful evening
Saw the words new to relate
Came the very mournful story,
Of the brave Lieutenant's fate.

Down within the stately airship,
His charred body there they found,
High upon a lonely mountain,
Lying there upon the ground.

None were there to tell the story,
How the fast airship went down
With its brave and gallant pilot
Who had won so much renown.

Days may come and years roll on,
As the seasons pass away,
Still to them will come the memory
Of that sad, sad Christmas day.

W. Russell Leach
Alderson, W. Va.

This poem was kept by Harry Burn of Cass who helped bring out the body of Lieutenant Bobbitt, after he crashed on Cheat on Christmas Day, 1931. It took a week to find the wreckage. Harry Burn was raised on a farm over where the wreck was raised.

Miss Rita Jean Aaronsen of 69 Central Avenue, Cortland, New York, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. ~~John~~ Finn K. Aaronsen of Oslo, Norway, formerly of Mill Neck, New York, became the bride of Gary Donald Cassell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis E. Cassell of 139 South Regent St., Port Chester and Livingston Manor, New York, on Saturday, March 24, at St. Paul's Church, Cortland, New York.

The bride wore a gown of ivory Satapeau. The bodice was designed with see through yoke, standing collar edged with lace with gullthrough pink ribbon and lace appliques on the bishop sleeve. The A-Line skirt was trinned with lace and ribbon as was the full train at its hemline. A cluster of flowers and streamers of pink ribbon held her three quarter length veil of bridal illusion. She carried a bouquet of ivory gardenia, pink tea roses and Stephanotis.

Miss Diane Neam was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Lucille Cassell and Mrs. Kenneth Roko.

Richard Deptula was the best man. Larry Cassell and John Wildenger were ushers.

Mrs. Cassell received a BA in secondary French from State University College at Cortland in June 1972. She is a member of Sigma Rho Sigma Sorority. She is employed by The Marine Midland Bank in The bookkeeping department.

Mr. Cassell is a 1972 graduate of State University College at Cortland. He is presently working on his masters. He received a BS degree in physical education. He is a member of Beta Phi Epsilon Fraternity. Mr. Cassell is employed by the Cortland City Schools as a coach.

Resurrection Prayer

most merciful Father, we commend our departed into your hands. We are filled with the sure hope our departed will rise again on the Last Day with all who have died in Christ. We thank you for all the good things you have given during our departed's earthly life.

O Father, in your great mercy, accept our pray that the Gates of Paradise may be opened for your servant. In our turn, may we too be comforted by the words of faith until we greet Christ in glory and we are united with you and our departed.
Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Bears Maintain Top Spot

The New Bern Bears won another Tennis match here Tuesday.

So what else is new?

The Bears have been unstoppable except for one outing, winning 10 of 11 this season under second-year coach Helen Holton.

With their 8-1 win over Jacksonville here, the Bears continue to take aim on the first league title in the school's history in the sport.

The Bears lost just one match, that coming when Dale Hieble topped second-seed David Creech of the Bears in a three-set match, 2-6, 6-2 and 6-1.

For Creech it was only his second loss against nine defeats this year.

Top seed Ray Thomas of New Bern got untracked and scoring an exciting three-set victory in the battle of number one players, besting Pete Gemborys of the Cards 6-0 and 6-2 after dropping the first set 6-3.

Mark La Vigne, the number three player for Holton's crew, remained unbeaten in 10 matches with a pair of 6-2 triumphs over Keith Guillory.

The Bears, who are 9-1 in the conference, their only Mideastern loss coming 5-4 to New Hanover, will travel to Wilmington Lacey Friday, then return home to host Tough Goldsboro Tuesday.

" THE GREAT PRESIDENT "

There once was a man
An unpersonal acquainted friend
Who I admired and repected
But life came to sudden end.

He once was the President
With desires so great,
Who should have been loved
By every citezen of each state.

If i'm ever ask who
My answer will be
The name of our leader
JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY.

He devoted his life
To unity, peace and equality,
And tho he is gone
These efforts ours should be.

The words I'll always remember
From his inauguration speech,
Should be passed on to grandchildern
And our teachers should teach.

Ask not what my country
Can do for me,
But what can I do
For my country.

Let us not be divided citizens
Of these great United States,
Let us be unified Americans
Holding equal freedom rates.

These desires I know
President Kennedy held,
But by an assassins bullet
He was befelled.

Though he's been slain
And is now gone,
Let us each take the burden
His deeds of unity carry on,

A display of a young bride's table shows the traditional and practical.

Plastic, china share bride's table

By Betsy Cook
STAFF WRITER

If you are about to shop for a wedding gift for a June bride, you better give it some more thought.

What brides of 1980 appear to be wanting can be a tough guessing game to play, say bridal consultants of area department stores.

The brides of 1980 seem to be a little different because they know exactly what they want. They're much in touch with reality and practicality, and your purchase may be a duplicate of something they already have or something they don't want at all.

In past years, young people often lived with their parents until their weddings and consequently didn't have so much as a teaspoon to start out with. They welcomed and depended on all wedding gifts. Today, however, many couples have had their own apartments and acquired the basics.

Yvonne Brulatour of South Charleston was married on June 7 to Monty L. Jackson. She worked as a chemical laboratory technician until about a month ago, had her own apartment and acquired a number of household items.

But every bride is different, the consultants say, which is another reason gift-buyers should check with bridal registers and contact the bride and her parents.

A display of Mrs. Jackson's shower and wedding gifts show the traditional and practical. Place settings of silver and antique candleholders sit beside paper towels and a wooden holder, bath towels, a coffee pot and Tupperware.

Jayne Jones of Dunbar, who was also married on June 7, feels differently. She did not register china, silver or crystal at any department stores. "It's just not practical," she said.

Debra Wilkerson of Charleston was another June 7 bride. She said she needed every item from a bar of soap on up.

In the past, brides were uncertain about what they wanted and what they would need, but they know exactly what they want now," said Everette Morrison, department buyer at Stone and Thomas.

"For a while, the brides were back to easy living, and china was considered impractical. But this new group of brides is unique," Mrs. Morrison said. "They aren't just picking a china pattern because it's traditional, they're thinking of the future and how the value will increase."

Also in the past, brides' families would give them pots, linens and so on, but brides today are registering for these items. It's because everything has become so expensive, they're registering for the practical things they need, too, said Marguerite Messenger, bridal registrar for The Diamond.

"These brides are mixing the traditional and practical," she said. "They still want the nice china and crystal, but then they're selecting a nice stainless steel instead of silver, and they are giving linens and housewares as much attention."

Bridal registers usually have items ranging from silver teaspoons to lamps. And there are those who ask to list more unusual things like equipped picnic baskets and outdoor grills. Recently, a bride registered a television at Stone and Thomas for those who may want to go together to buy gift.

RhoGAM failure not always tragic

Dear Dr. Newman: I have Rh negative blood, and after my first two pregnancies I received a RhoGAM shot because both babies were Rh positive. Our third baby, also positive, had Rh disease. Because my blood has been sensitized I was not given another RhoGAM shot. I have never had a miscarriage or an abortion, and I have a very regular menstrual cycle. I have also used an IUD after all three pregnancies. Question: How could my blood have become sensitized, and how great is the danger should we decide to have another child? — Mrs. M.K.

Dear Mrs. M.K. — You have been one of those very rare cases of RhoGAM failure. RhoGAM is nothing more than Rh antibodies which are injected shortly after delivery into Rh negative mothers whose babies are Rh positive. These antibodies attack any Rh positive red blood cells which may have passed from the baby's blood stream into the mother's during delivery. By attacking the blood cells and destroying them, these injected antibodies prevent them from causing the mother to manufacture antibodies of her own.

In other words, the RhoGAM injection prevents the mother from becoming sensitized against the Rh positive blood cells. Thus a baby with Rh positive blood cells will be protected because the mother's system will not red blood cells from the baby escaped RhoGAM destruction.

Today measurements are made individually on each mother to determine just how many red blood cells have passed into her system from the baby. The RhoGAM dosage is then adjusted accordingly.

Although you have become sensitized, the degree of sensitization may be small, and your next baby might not have any problems whatever. It would have to be monitored closely during your pregnancy, however.

Probably an exchange transfusion will need to be made at the time of birth wherein all the baby's original blood will be replaced with new blood. Such a transfusion may even need to be made before the baby is born — a more difficult procedure and not always successful. Nevertheless, the chances of having a normal baby are in your favor.

Thus a baby with Rh positive blood cells will be protected because the mother's system will not manufacture antibodies of its own that can destroy a future fetus's blood. If for some reason a mother has already manufactured Rh antibodies, they may cross from her bloodstream during the next pregnancy and enter that of her baby via the placenta, destroying its Rh positive red blood cells. As a consequence, the baby becomes anemic and may be stillborn.

In the early days of RhoGAM development, determinations were made as to the average amount required for destruction of all red blood cells released from the baby at the time of delivery — destruction which would prevent the mother from becoming sensitized. A standard dosage was developed and administered in almost all instances. Eventually, however, it became apparent that such dosages were not always adequate, in some cases like your own.

Fan mail I get always interests me. Letter recently from Danny Daniels, 2841 Washington Ave, St. Albans:

"I have to make a report on the State of Alabama for school. Since you are from Alabama, I thought you might send me some information. I am 12 years old. Thank you very much."

There's not much I can tell you, Danny, that you can't get out of the encyclopedia, except that Alabama was first visited by White Europeans when the Spanish Conquistador, Hernando de Soto, journeyed up Mobile Bay, the Mobile River and the Tombigbee River, right past the white limestone bluff I used to live on at McDowell, Ala., and on into upper Mississippi by way of the Little Tombigbee. That was in the year 1539, about 64 years before the first English settlement was made in Virginia and 325 or so years before West Virginia became a state.

Alabama was the home of the famous poet, Sidney Lanier; of the Statesman and U.S. Vice President William Rufus King; of the Army general and sanitation expert who cleaned up Panama and made possible the Panama Canal, William Crawford Gorgas, and was the adopted home for 50 years of the famous scientist and educator, George Washington Carver.
